Miller Center Announces 2014–15 Student Ambassadors

The University of Virginia's Miller Center has announced its 2014–15 student ambassadors, ten U.Va. undergraduate students who will assist with Miller Center programs and events, publicize the Center on U.Va. Grounds, and encourage student attendance and engagement with the Center's resources.

In addition, the ambassadors organize the Miller Center's annual Secrets and Traditions event, which will include a talk by Wayne Cozart, vice president of development and director of the Jefferson Trust at U.Va.'s Alumni Association, on U.Va.'s secret societies. Marc Selverstone, chair of the Miller Center's Presidential Recordings Program, will play the secret White House tapes of U.S. presidents. This year's Secrets and Traditions event will take place on Friday, October 24 at 4:00 p.m. Pizza and refreshments will follow the presentations.

The 2014–15 student ambassadors are:

Jessica Blusiewicz, fourth-year student in the Politics Distinguished Majors Program, editor of the Wilson Journal of International Affairs, and a student member on the Madison House Board of Directors

Rachel Boisjolie, second-year double major in foreign affairs and history, Cavalier Daily production staff member, and intern with the Miller Center's Presidential Recordings Program

Helen Broad, second-year student planning to double major in English and political science, U.Va.'s Club Equestrian Team member, and Cavalier Daily writer

Kacey Hirtle, fourth-year English major and history minor, Madison House volunteer, and Kappa Alpha Theta sorority member

Julie Kern, third-year major in foreign affairs and Arabic language, and Jefferson Literary and Debating Society member; has studied abroad at the London School of Economics and traveled to Oman on a State Department scholarship

Rachel Kopelove, second-year student planning to double major in American Studies and either politics or sociology

Rebecca Lim, fourth-year major in political and social thought and East Asian studies, and Cavalier Daily editor-in-chief; teaches a seminar on North Korea through the Cavalier Education program

William McComb, third-year commerce student, project leader for Student Entrepreneurs for Economic Development, and Beta Theta Pi fraternity member

Kaitlyn McMillan, second-year student who studies politics, economics, and Spanish; Miller Center student receptionist, who transcribes tapes for the Center's Presidential Recordings Program

Katharine "Kaleigh" Pittman, third-year student planning to double major in art history and cognitive science, Alpha Chi Omega sorority member, and Madison House volunteer
